

Birds of a Feather Session for Grace Hopper, October, 2004

Title: The Global Women's Leadership Center and Systems

Moderator's Data:

Linda Alepin will be the primary moderator. She is the Executive Professor of Leadership at the Leavey School of Business, Santa Clara University, Founder of the Global Women's Leadership Center, and CEO of Center for New Futures.

Given approval of the session, she will recruit Maria Klawe, Dean of the Princeton School of Engineering and Applied Science to co-host the session

Abstract:

The Global Women's Leadership Center at Santa Clara is dedicated to producing leaders of competence, conscience and compassion. Rooted in Silicon Valley, the world's innovation hub, we aim to provide unique educational opportunities and leading edge research to take on the global challenges of today and tomorrow. This session explores the needs of both technical and non-technical women in order to address major problems of health, economics, and society across the world.
